Pricing information

Our highly regarded and experienced family law team provides a range of specialist services to individuals living in Scotland and those living in other countries who require Scots Law family advice.

Most of our lawyers are accredited specialists in family law so you are in safe hands.

We recognise that the cost of legal services needs to be balanced against the benefit provided, and so ensuring that work is done as efficiently and cost effectively as is possible is at the core of how we work.

We have a well-resourced team varying degrees of experience – from our market leading partners to more junior lawyers. We always aim to ensure that work is done at the right level to manage costs appropriately.

Given that all of our clients' situations are different, inevitably, costs can vary considerably. The sorts of factors that affect legal costs can include: the approach our clients wish to take; the approach that our clients' spouses/partners and their lawyers take; the various issues involved and their complexity (both factually and legally).

We normally charge on an hourly basis for work undertaken for our clients, at the rates set out below. All work done for our clients is charged in line with those hourly rates as set out in our Terms of Business and Letter of Engagement that will be issued at the outset. Such work includes meetings, telephone calls, noting matters discussed, reading documents and correspondence, drafting correspondence and documents, considering approach and strategy etc.

We are able to offer fixed fees for certain pieces of work we undertake for our clients; and we will confirm if we are able to do so and will provide transparency on such fixed fees.
